It is our pleasure to invite you to support The American Society of Ophthalmic Trauma (ASOT) Annual Meeting and Damage Control Wet Lab May 9-10, 2025, at the Houston Methodist Institute for Technology, Innovation and Education in Houston, Texas.

Please see the next few pages for Exhibitor and Sponsorship opportunities.

Program Overview: Eye Trauma 2025 Annual Meeting is the only U.S. conference dedicated to advancing the treatment of eye injuries.

This course has two separate components, with separate registrations: a half day wet lab, and a CME accredited educational eye trauma conference.

Attendees will:

- Learn the latest in diagnosis, treatment, and research
- Gain exposure to devices
- Develop surgical skills for damage control and reconstruction
- Learn about telemedicine for eye trauma
- Learn about systems approach to trauma management in diverse settings

The program emphasizes a holistic, cross-disciplinary approach to the injured patient, which includes managing injuries that affect multiple sites in the eye; treating eye injuries in the setting of patients with systemic polytrauma; consent and liability; infection control; and the psychological effects of vision loss after trauma. It will include sessions focused on ophthalmic telemedicine and trauma systems. The conference will be recorded for enduring educational content.

Target Audience: This course is targeted to ophthalmologists, ophthalmology trainees, researchers, optometrists, first responders, and medical students. Topics cover all sub-specialties including retina, cataract, glaucoma, oculoplastics, cornea, pediatrics/strabismus, neuro- ophthalmology, and public health. The hands-on wet lab is open to ophthalmologists and ophthalmology residents.

Needs Assessment

Eye trauma affects all populations and can occur in any setting. From infants to the elderly, patients may present with penetrating, crush, chemical, blast, or thermal injuries sustained at home, work, in sports, daily activities, or in combat.

This course has two components: a wet lab and a didactic educational program. It will prepare providers to assess, stabilize, and treat or triage injured eyes. ASOT 2025 offers front-line practitioners a forum to share and integrate knowledge from an international panel of ophthalmic traumatologists drawn from premier teaching institutions, private practice, and the military. The low ratio of students to faculty allows lab attendees to benefit from one-on-one teaching. This training is crucial for improving patient outcomes and preventing blindness.

Supporting ASOT Eye Trauma 2025 is a unique prospect to highlight your brand with an engaged U.S. and International audience who will also use your products in the non-emergency setting.

The information, with acknowledgement of your support, will endure in online format after the meeting to reach and educate a world-wide audience. We encourage you to take full advantage of this excellent opportunity to network with your target market.
